Colonel Devine.

Colonel Devine.

Colonel James Devine, who is interested in the talking machine company, was busily engaged in fixing up a lot of machines yesterday. It is stated that Colonel Devine, realizing that the duties of his position will not permit him to devote the time to making a speech in every precipat, has decided to get a lot of these machines ready, talk the same speech into a large number of them, and then send them around for the edification of a gasping and expectant public.

Mrs. Wood was warmly congratulated by the leading Democratic ladies upon her remarks, which so clearly explained the situation and showed the importance of taking such action. It will effectually dispell the delusion which has prevailed among some of the Democratic ladies that the club is an office-seeking institution—an impression which has heretofore kept many from affiliating. There was very little discussion as to the resolutions, since the members were a unit in their favor, and when the chairman, Mrs. Ellen R. Ferguson, placed them before the meeting, the vote was unanimous. The step taken by the club is very important me will have the effect of keeping up a large attendance.
